Denver's historic Hotel Teatro celebrates getting on T+L 500 World's Best list

On Travel + Leisure magazine's 500 World's Best Hotels 2010 list, you'll see brands such as Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Mandarin Oriental and Fairmont. But I love searching the list for hotels I've never heard of. I might be living in a Southern California cave, but the Hotel Teatro in downtown Denver was new to me and it looks great! The hotel, which completed a $1.5-million renovation in 2008, is equally pleased to be on the list, and to celebrate it put together a package with world-class perks.

Deal: The "Travel + Leisure 500 Package" includes a night in Room 500 (a junior suite, with a regular published rate of $479); a five-course dinner for two at the hotel's Kevin Taylor Restaurant ($150 value); champagne delivered to the room ($35 value); and an aromatherapy bath ($20 value). The rooms also come with plasma-screen televisions, iPod docking stations and free Wi-Fi. The package costs a celebratory $500 per night for two people.

When: Available until Dec. 30.

Tested: I looked to see if this package was available on Saturday, May 29 (the night before my birthday), and indeed it was. The total package price after taxes and fees came to $574 — definitely a savings over a la carte pricing. But for a cheaper option, I found the "Bed & Breakfast Package," with a Superior King room and breakfast for two, for only $219 per night, pretax. I also liked the "Kevin Taylor Dinner Package" (good through the same dates), which included a five-course dinner for two that could be added to any room. For the Superior King, this package was $299 per night, pretax, or $343 after taxes.

Booking tip: To book any of the hotel's packages, you can call the hotel or do it online. Just click on "Book Your Room" from the home page, plug in your dates, and then click the "Select a Room Inclusive Package" instead of "Select Just a Room," and you'll see all the packages available with descriptions of what is included.
