The layering and fabric gurus over at Under Armour have been producing outerwear for a few seasons, each year better than the last. The Hooper Jacket and Lewis pant both have ArmourStorm 10,000 mm construction, fully taped seams, and a jacket-to-pant system, making this gear as tech as you'll need from the park to the backcountry. Drop in features like mesh-lined vents, a Recco receiver, MP3 pockets and more, and this suit will have you on the hill all day, wherever you are. Quickly becoming an industry-leader in the style category, UA is now making cuts bigger and you'll be emulating Teen Heartthrob Bobby Brown in no time. At least in the lift line.
