

The graduated diamond pattern and slender belt visually narrow your waist. (eddiebauer.com)

$179

$170

This lightweight, densely filled nylon shell has a thermal liner that stores body heat. (columbia.com)

You'll never blend into the background wearing striking, superaffordable camouflage. (Norma Kamali for Walmart; walmart.com)

$35

$149

A mock-sweater collar gives the impression of layers. (eddiebauer.com)

$100

Get wrapped up in a cool neutral with an asymmetrical hem and distressed leather belt. (Club Monaco; 212-459-9863)

The bold color, flannel interior, and furry, detachable hood make winter easier to bear. (aeropostale.com)

$295

The collar-scarf instantly embellishes a classic A-line shape. (katespade.com)

$300

Knit cuffs and faux fur make this pristine knee-length coat extra cozy. (DKNY, select Macy's stores; 800-622-9748)

$178

The soft rose of this belted puffer looks good with nearly every skin tone. (garnethill.com)

$50

Vertical seams and streamlined pockets enhance a trim silhouette. (dressbarn.com)

$695

$130

Can't-miss-me chartreuse (with a leopard lining) stands out on the slopes. (obermeyer.com)

$249

A flattering slim cut and shawl collar up the femininity factor. (patagonia.com)

— BROOKE KOSOFSKY GLASSBERG

PUFF love

We're all for ultrawarm coats—but no one wants to look like the Michelin woman. This winter, go for a more fitted down jacket.