A HOME AT THE RITZ

Imagine taking a relaxing desert vacation—and never having to leave. That's the idea at the Ritz-Carlton, Dove Mountain, a half-billion-dollar, 850-acre resort community in northwest Tucson's high Sonoran Desert, where 300 grand residences offer the opportunity to live in luxury year round. theresidencesdovemountain.com

SUPER MODELS With the opening of two on-site model homes, home-buyers can get acquainted with five customizable residences that range from 2,400 to 5,400 square feet, each designed to blur the boundaries between indoors and out with features like retractable glass walls, private courtyards and expansive outdoor living spaces outfitted with kitchens, fire pits and pools. Looking for something truly one-of-a-kind? Two- to seven-acre estate homesites offer picturesque spots for your desert dream home.

LIVING LUXE Relax—all the details are taken care of, thanks to a staff of valets, concierges, cooks, gardeners and housekeepers, so there's nothing to keep you from enjoying the views, the world-class spa, or the Golf Club's 36 holes of Jack Nicklaus Signature golf.
